

Childe is the epitome of shameless and attention seeker. As such, when it comes to burping, Childe is very much in the category of 'loud and proud'. After eating a hearty meal, Childe will always make it a point to punctuate the end of his meal with a large, full-throated belch and a sigh of relief. And whenever his friends glare at him over his utter lack of manners, he'll simply smack his lips, then smack his belly and insist that it's a complement. In fact, the more likely he is to get someone to say something, be it out of amusement or annoyance, the more likely Childe is to intentionally let loose.

Any excuse to be the center of attention, good or bad.

Given that, Childe is insanely good at burping on command, second only to Itto, whose burps are unmatched in the world of Genshin. Childe is the type to show off by quickly swallowing down air and burping it right back up. He can do rapid-fire burps back-to-back around anyone he thinks will get a laugh out of it and usually keeps going until he half-jokingly mutters that he's starting to feel sick. Or if he wants to do a really loud burp, he'll swallow down air and keep swallowing until his stomach feels heavy and uncomfortable. He'll grimace, slowly rubbing his bare stomach beneath his shirt as it audibly gurgles, telling you to give it a sec to settle, before gripping his gut tightly with one hand, throwing his head back and burping so hard that you'd swear you could practically hear much his throat probably hurt after that one. After burps like that, Childe will groan boorishly with relief, or smack his chest hard to knock loose a throaty afterburp or two.

If anyone around him calls him out for burping like that, Childe will grin innocently, subtly gulp down air and belch out the word,

“SOOOORRRRYYY-YAAAAHHHH!!!!”

As expected, Childe is also really good at burp-talking. He can easily burp the alphabet and get short phrases out with a few gulps of air. But if he gets a sparkling water in him, he can burp out entire sentences. And usually because of how much air he takes in, the last word always devolves into a full-on raunchy belch that leaves him sighing contently and grinning cheekily.

When Childe is really stuffed to the brim, his burps become really heavy and brassy. Upon finishing a massive feast, Childe will slump back with his bulging belly hiking up his shirt and sloshing heavily, then burp so forcefully that his gut will jiggle slightly from the exertion. Zhongli will never admit it, but he loves seeing Childe so utterly bloated, and watching him trying to be so cocky when he's so overstuffed. He'll slowly rub Childe's belly and clutch down on his weighty gut with his gloved fingers and force out one long, painful belch after another from Childe, who's usually left groaning in an overstuffed manner while Zhongli lightly pats Childe's bulging belly and teases him about where all his bravado went. Childe's only real response at that point is a weak afterburp and him groaning for Zhongli to just keep rubbing.